AC Outage Bld 71

2025-08-11 - Jeff Clark - General

Update: AC in the building has been restored but it may take several hours for temperature and humidity levels to return to normal levels.

We are currently experiencing an A/C outage in building 71 which started overnight. The situation is currently being evaluated and we hope it will be up and running shortly.

Because of the outage, there is excess moisture in the building which is making some floors very slippery. Signs have been posted, but please use the upmost caution when entering and moving around the building.
